Telecorp Inc. Announces Agreement to Acquires ASSET Management Software System

Company Targets Leadership Position in Automated CRM Market

Barrie, ON, May 26, 2008/PRNewswire/ - TeleCorp Inc. a leading provider of communication solutions announced today that it has agreed to acquire ASSET Management Software System through a strategic partnership with Workflow Management.

It is agreed that Telecorp will finish the software development and make added improvements to the product in a share revenue opportunity. ASSET Management Software System was design for 3M which was meant to control various assets and inventories at offices and locations that they serve. Telecorp is going to include bidding and tendering system to it and add a large business database to it as well.

The completes software will target a number of industries including hospital, pharmacies, banks, property management companies, large international companies, factories and much more.

Telecorp will call this new web based software iControl.

“Our clients have increasingly asked for tools to aid in efficiencies improvement, and we’re confident that Telecorp’s iControl will help achieve their goals,” says Paul Phillips, Telecorp’s President “By integrating leading technologies in both data analysis and inventory asset control mixed with a complete communication process and system, we’ve been able to develop a solution never before seen in the marketplace.”

iControl is a revolutionary approach to allow companies of all sizes to control not only their assets and inventories but their customer’s needs as well. This web-based solution will trigger alerts and automate bidding and tendering opportunities to make sure our customers are getting best quotes and pricing available. Our clients can set up exactly the way they want based on their needs and requirements. Full database and communication notes and files are kept as well mapping and delivery instructions, plus they can even offer this for their customers as well. The iControl will also be perfect for “Just in Time” delivery and shipments.

The release of the product will October 2008.
